goodmorning bridge

Hello everyone!

The first two days are behind us. We had a rainy Saturday, but it was followed by a sunny Sunday giving you the opportunity to enjoy yourself on a beach, enjoying the nature or simply sitting on a terrace and absorbing sun beams. For those that love electronic music there was an option of a music festival in Štinjan, a small village near Pula, and for others interested in a night life there are always some nice clubs and bars in Pula offering good time. Ah yes, we did play some bridge also.

The competition of IMP pairs tournament fielded 173 pairs. After 26 boards of blood, sweat and, hopefully, no tears, a Bulgarian pair swept the competition with a 19 IMP margin:

1. J. Stamatov – D. Danailov	+92 IMP
2. O. Staničić – V. Zorić	+73 IMP
3. A. Jeseničnik – T. Orač	+59 IMP

Congratulations to the winners!

IMP pairs winners: Jerry Stamatov & Diyan Danailov

Sunny Sunday was the right time for romantic walks near the sea and the proper way for couples to end their walks is, of course, at the bridge table. Mixed or non-mixed, we are not picky, there is something for everyone.

We had 48 teams in the mixed teams event and after 6 matches Austrian team Franz was victorious:

- 1. FRANZ - Ilse Betina Artmer, Josef Simon, Sylvia Terraneo, Franz Terraneo
2. BARRACUDA - Steven de Donder, Steve de Roos, Tine Dobbels, Brigitta Fisher
3. LA BOMBA - Marina Pilipovic, T Sceanovic, Nikica Sver, O Stanicic

Men's teams had 35 teams competing and the winners come from Poland:

- 1. KONSTANTA - Wit Klapper, Miroslaw Milaszewski, Jerzy Skwark, Jerzy Stworzewicz
2. MAJOR B - Samir Dolarevic, Bulent Kajtaz, Sen Tezcan, Ranko Tica
3. LODZ - Jacek Grzelczak, Grzegorz Lewaciak, Adam Pawlowski, Pawel Zubiel

Congratulations!

On Monday we play Mini-teams, while Tuesday is free until the evening when we play mixed and non-mixed pairs tournaments so be sure to catch some sun since our weather forecast is pretty good for the week.

So let's continue!

UPCOMING EVENTS

By SchTsch

Mini Teams: Board-a-Match

On Monday we play Mini Teams. There will be 4 afternoon sessions and 3 evening sessions. Please be sure to have the accurate count on rounds played and don't leave after the third round thinking it's dinner time already. It's 4+3.

In the evening we will have a karaoke party in the Yacht club with special drink prices so we expect you all to be there and have fun.

Today we shall play something that we like to call Mini Teams, which is scored using the "Board-a-Match" format (BAM).

When your result on a hand is better you will score 2 points -- and unlike IMPs, 430 is better than 420.

When your result is exactly the same at both tables, the two teams split the points 1:1.

If your side scores less on a given hand than the opponents do, you score no points on that deal and they get 2 points.

We will play six boards every round, so in each round your maximum is 12 VPs.

Again, we kindly ask you to register in time. Our registration desk ladies feel lonely if no one visits them during morning hours.

BLEEDING HEARTS

by SchTsch

When you pick up your hand and notice an eight card suit in it, you can say that your desired trump suit is pretty obvious regardless of partner's holding. The only problem seems to be choosing the proper level and preventing your opponents to discover a good sacrifice.

So, how do you treat this hand:

♠ 106
♥ AK987543
♦ Q4
♣ 5

You hear your partner open 1♦ and your RHO bids 2♣. What now?

It is obvious that you will bid either forcing 2♥ or nonforcing 4♥ because some artistic approach could produce a chaos on this pretty straightforward hand. You hold ♦Qx in your partner's suit and if you have no heart loser you need partner to have ♦AK and a black ace, mere 11 points for easy 12 tricks.

So you choose 2♥ to leave yourself some space for investigation?

If you bid 2♥ your LHO bids 2♠, partner passes and RHO bids 3♣ suggesting no spade fit. Now you bid your 4♥ which becomes the final contract.

When the dummy appears with:

♠ AJ54
♦ AK876
♣ K874

You can say that you are in the right spot. And you are right, on 3-2 trump split you make easy 11 tricks for +650.

So, what makes this hand so interesting? Who's bleeding? Let's take a look at the whole deal:

Dealer: S ♠ 106
♥ AK987543
VUL: all ♦ Q4
♣ 5

♠ -	♠ KQ98732
♥ Q106	♥ J2
♦ J952	♦ 103
♣ AQJ632	♣ 109

♠ AJ54
♦ AK876
♣ K874

What do you expect East would bid over 4♥ instead of 2♥? We can see that pass is the right bid, but can the endplayed East see it? Looking at the IMP pairs field here in Pula, a lot of Easts could not find the right bid and overcalled 4♥ with a dangerous but relatively understandable 4♠.

Well, that's what your partner has been waiting for. Let the bleeding begin. An easy double and an easy +1100 for a nice heart-provoked bloodshed for +10 IMPs.

Yes, if East passes you've gained nothing and could have missed a slam, but then again, who pays an entry fee in a touristic tournament to pass a seven card spade suit on a reasonable level?

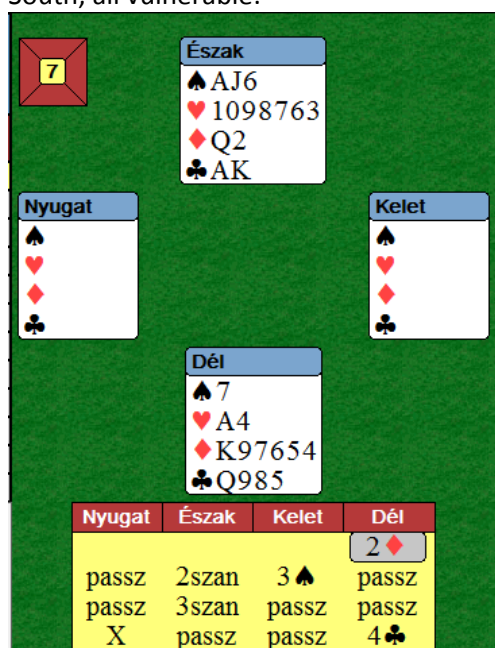

Worth a shot, ain't it?

DON'T DOUBLE THE MAGICIAN!

by Dani Viktor

author, editor bridgemagic.net

One of the best hands I have ever played, happened on this Sunday, I played on a BBO star match with Sam Cohen against immy Cayne and Dano Defalco. It was a pretty exciting match, very tight, and we were leading by 11 IMPs before the last bord, hich means, that at this point they could only win the match with a positive swing, and everybody knew it: South, all vulnerable:

(We cannot see from diagram because of size, that West doubled 4♣ and later North's 4♦ bid too.)

The 2♦ weak two opening is questionable: the ♦ quality is bad, we have an outside Ace, but with 6-4 in the minors, I decided to open it.

North's 2NT was at least game invitational relay for me, not having agreement with Sam to bid ♥ this way, and when we landed in 3NT after East's overcall. West decided to double the contract. Sam fortunately passed in normal tempo, and it was up to me to make this crucial decision. My point was, that 3NT will not be good a contract, because:

- Partner didn't bid 3NT immediately to 2♦, so he may be gambling now

- West seems to have ♠ tolerance and good ♦, because he doubled 3NT, and it is easier to bid 3♠ with ♦ shortness for East

Therefore the 3NT doubled is a pretty bad place to be. So, considering all this, I decided to bid 4♣, West doubled it, and later he also doubled 4♦. The opening lead was the ♥ Q, I won it in my hand and started to put all the pieces together.

The solution

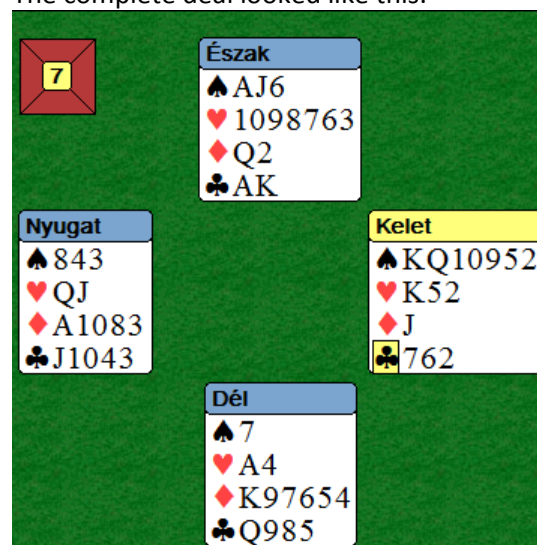

West will have probably either 2-3-4-4 or 3-2-4-4, having 3♦ and one ♥ trick. Can there be anything done about this? The answer is yes, if we can end-play him to get back a ♦ trick.

So I played small ♦ to the Dummy's Queen, and seeing East's Jack, my plan started to be realizable:

I played ♣ Ace and King, I played ♠ Ace, ♠ ruff, I played ♣ Queen and I ruffed ♣9 in the dummy, I ruffed another ♠, which worked, and I was ready: I had already 9 tricks and I had ♦ K97 and ♥ 4 in my hand, a 100 % trick: I played ♥ 4, and doesn't matter, who wins this trick, because West will take trick 11 in case of surcoup, giving me the ♦ King. At the table, West won trick 10, and was already end-played.

It is worth considering, that it looks like that West couldn't defeat the contract, winning the 1st ♦ with the Ace, because doesn't matter, that he continues with ♦ or club, we can establish ♥, having 3 more entries to the dummy, and he could only take 2♦ and a ♥ trick this way.

The complete deal looked like this:

COOPERATING WITH A MISTAKE

by Dani Viktor

author, editor bridgemagic.net

Sometimes the only sure thing is that such bidding sequence is impossible. What to do when partner is obviously trying to make up for a previous bid he made? For instance, I played with an advanced client in a club pairs tournament holding the following hand:

The screenshot shows a bridge bidding interface. North is the dealer. The bidding sequence is: 1♣, 2NT, 4NT. South is limited (NS: 0, EW: 0). The hand is:

Player	Hand
North	♠ A975 ♥ KQ8 ♦ K2 ♣ AK53
South	♠ 4 ♥ A97653 ♦ Q876 ♣ Q4

West is asking for keycards with 4NT. The interface shows a 'Pass' button and a 'Alert' button.

It was a strange situation. My partner was limited, and I didn't want to bid slam. Anyway, he decided to bid 4NT as Roman keycard asking, what was a real off the road decision, and it was my time to think about the situation.

If I want to stop in 5♥, the best way would be to deny my keycard. On the other hand, would it be so bad to play slam, if partner has extremely good hand?

I decided to bid 5♦, 1/4 keycards, and was happy to see the dummy in 6♥:

The screenshot shows the final hand and the result of the bid. The hand is:

Player	Hand
North	♠ A975 ♥ KQ8 ♦ K2 ♣ AK53
South	♠ 4 ♥ A97653 ♦ Q876 ♣ Q4

The result is 6♥. The interface shows a 'Pass' button and a 'Alert' button.

Contract was cold as Canadian winter, both ♦ and ♥ were well distributed, and I made the hand easily.

I still would like to suggest 2 important things for the less experienced players:

1. When you are limited, and your partner is not, you better let him control the hand. It was a success story, but it is very accidental. I could have had much worse hand and go down in 5♥.
2. It is a nice thing to play kickback (relay) RKC, when you have already fit. When the RKC is the next step above your suit (kickback), you will have 4 steps with 4 possible normal answers (without void), so you will never bid above the 5th level of your fit with few keycards.

THE FUTURE

by SchTsch

It is hard to ignore probably the greatest ethics show in the history of bridge that is currently shaking the complete bridge world. A top world class pair has been publicly accused of cheating by their peers looming a dark shadow upon the game that we love. Federations have taken actions and it remains for us to wait and see the outcome of these shocking events. These events left some stains on our beloved game, but the best way to clean them is to play even more, respecting our opponents and partner, enjoying a fair game and a healthy competition in this wonderful environment. That shouldn't be difficult, right?

On the other hand, recent events can probably be interpreted as an announcement of an evolution taking place in the top-level bridge. OK, we are already using cameras, teams of experts can analyse each and every move a pair makes at the table, link it to their card holdings and identify the cheaters after some period of time. But can it be prevented? With currently available technology it is easy to imagine that „cheat-proof“ methods of top level events will include two separate rooms for one table thus separating partners with more than just a screen. Players will use some electronic devices to control the bidding and play, deals will be automatically recorded and partners will be unable to exchange any information outside bids and cardplay. You will still have one opponent to practice table presence though. It won't be lost. Time per pair will also be easier to implement leading to the equal distribution of time in the match. Cards will become obsolete, players will play using touch screens and the game will change its skin.

Looking further in the future we can see hologram tables coming into picture and comeback of the cards. „Screenmates“ will still be in different rooms from their partners, but bids and plays from the other room will be shown on a hologram table making a „full table effect“, just without people from the other room. Everything will look the same as now although it will be completely different.

Luckily, bridge is not just a quest for perfection, it is also a great social tool for bridging different people together, creating new friendships and wonderful experiences. Below this top-level events with medically prepared playing areas we will still have good old face to face bridge, relaxed games and a lot of joy playing the game we love and admire too much to stain it with unethical actions.

The future will not be grim after all.

NO CHEATING IN PULA

by Srfa

Whole bridge community across the world is shocked and shaken by the latest cheating scandal on the top level so you, my dear reader, must have heard at least a bit about the Fischer-Schwartz case. As this is such a hot topic in bridge world, I think I will try my „pen“ on it.

Well, while we are playing and enjoying our wonderful game, the game itself is very vulnerable and is occasionally compromised by unethical players of various calibers. We are nowadays witnessing the discovery of outright cheating, via illegal signals that had taken place on the last European Championships Opatija 2014, Spingold 2015 and probably on many more occasions. To add at least some bright light to this sad case, it was nice to witness how few of the world's top players joined forces to crack the signaling code that was used. If you are interested in the details of this case, I would recommend the BridgeWinners web site.

But, what does this mean to us, bridge players playing on the biggest bridge festival after this incident? I can't really give you an answer on that question. But I do believe that all of us here will try hard for the best possible result, but only with regular bridge weapons and applying active ethics principles. Our tournament directors are at all time around to help and monitor that. If we will do our part, really best among us will win, and rest of us will still be happy.

Ok, enough preaching, let's get back to my usual funny side! I'm about to make some confessions. I cheated! Here are a few drastic cases:

On one random Thursday I asked my wife if I can play some bridge on local club. She answered to me that i can't play cards so much, that it would be ok if I would go to some theater instead, or something similar, but not bridge. Suddenly, I discover that there is a nice play in one local theater on that day, so I call one of my friends to go together, and we score 63% ☺

One of my dear partners pulls out my penalty double that would yield +500 and proceeds to go down for

-1100. He asks me if this was correct move from his side, and I somehow succeed to confirm that. Well, that was outright cheating of my own partner ☺

Being known to be clumsy, I succeed somehow to mix up into my current hand, queen of clubs from previous board, and I realize somewhere in sixth trick that my club holding is QQx. Opponents are playing in five clubs in nine-card fit. Declarer plays for the drop, and really succeeds to drop first of my queens of clubs. Than he claims his contract and I see that he is trying to cheat me as I have still my trump trick with my second queen of clubs. I than teach him a lesson that cheating is not paying-off and show him my carefully preserved second queen of clubs ☺

1st International Bridge Festival of the Paris Country Club November 5th – 11th, Paris, France

We are thrilled to welcome you in the magnificent surroundings of the Paris Country Club to our bridge festival from 5th to 11th November 2015.

Prior to the International Festival of Paris, a championship of Paris will be held on 5th and 6th November in partnership with Fun bridge devoted to novice, intermediate and recently advanced players.

From 7th to 11th November, Mixed pairs, IMP's and Open tournaments will take place with great prizes in money and in-kind.

Located at around ten minutes from the center of Paris, the Paris Country Club opens the doors of its new hotel and its prestigious reception rooms. You will play in an early 20th century listed building surrounded by 136 acres of greenery. Only a few meters from the playing room, the newly built 4 stars Hotel Renaissance Paris Hippodrome de St. Cloud is proud to welcome in one of its 110 rooms and suites at a preferred price during the festival (see Hotel). Hotel guests will have a free access to the fitness center and will be able to play in the Country Club's private golf course at an attractive price.
